BJSO-2023-0260.R2 - Article

"Intersectional Race-Gender Stereotypes in Natural Language"

Bao, Han-Wu-Shuang; Gries, Peter

Dear Dr. Han-Wu-Shuang Bao,

Thank you for making the requested changes to your manuscript. I am now pleased to accept it for publication in the British Journal of Social Psychology.

Congratulations on putting together such an excellent manuscript. I look forward to seeing it in BJSP in due course. The success of the journal is dependent on the goodwill of reviewers and we hope that you will be able to review for us in the future. We welcome any feedback that you may have about the journal's review process.

Please note although the manuscript is accepted the files will now be checked to ensure that everything is ready for publication, and you may be contacted if final versions of files for publication are required. If you had anonymised any information in your main document, please send a de-anonymised version to the editorial office (bjso@wiley.com) as soon as possible.

Your article cannot be published until the publisher has received the appropriate signed license agreement. Within the next few days, the corresponding author will receive an email from Wiley's Author Services system which will ask them to log in and will present them with the appropriate license for completion. Note: for UK authors, all articles published in the British Journal of Social Psychology are eligible for inclusion in the REF 2028. Our copyright license conforms to the requirements for Panel A: Psychology, Psychiatry and Neuroscience in the Research Excellence Framework (REF).

 Proofing and Early View Publication ***

All articles are typeset and made available online to subscribers immediately after acceptance. This enables your research to be fully searchable and citable prior to publication. If the figures you supplied for peer review were less than 300 dpi, please send us high quality figures now to use in the typeset article. You will be able to access your PDF proof within the next 2 to 3 weeks for approval. The corresponding author will receive an email alert containing a link to a web site. This will enable the file to be opened, read on screen and annotated directly within the PDF. Further instructions will be sent with the proof. Once corrected and published online, your article will then be placed into the production queue for allocation to an issue. Issue publication normally occurs 6-12 months after acceptance, depending on the current publication lag. Please note that no corrections or changes can be made to the content of the article once published online.

 Supporting Information ***

If you have supporting information, Wiley will host an approved version with the article online. Supporting information will not be copyedited, checked or changed from its original format. If you notice an error, please get in touch as soon as possible. Supporting information materials must be original and not previously published. If previously published, please provide the necessary permissions. You may also display your supporting information on your own or institutional website. Such posting is not subject to the journal's embargo date as specified in the copyright agreement. The responsibility for scientific accuracy and file functionality remains entirely with the author(s). A disclaimer to this effect is displayed with any published supporting information.

Open access publication is available to authors of primary research articles who wish to make their article available to non-subscribers, or whose funding agency requires grantees to archive the final version of their article. Please see the Author Guidelines for more information:

The British Psychological Society (BPS) has launched a Wiley Open Access Account (WOAA), and may cover the APC to publish your article as open access if eligible. In order to participate, please indicate an affiliation with the BRITISH PSYCHOLOGICAL SOCIETY in Author Services on the Affiliation page. This will allow you to submit your open access order to the Society. Once complete, please confirm your BPS Society Membership number via email to AccountDashboard@wiley.com, with the subject: [BPS Society Membership Confirmation].

 Production Status Tracking ***

You can now track your article via the publisher's Author Services. Once your article is in production, you will receive an e-mail with a unique code that automatically adds your article to the system when you register. With Author Services you can check the status of your article online and choose to receive automated emails at key stages of production. Therefore, please ensure that we have your complete email address. You may also nominate up to ten colleagues to be notified upon publication and receive FREE ONLINE ACCESS to your article. In addition, you can access Kudos through Author Services, which will help you to increase the impact of your research. We believe this will help to drive readership and citations of your articles.

* Reprints and Offprints *

You will be provided with a PDF off-print of your article once it has been published. In order to retrieve it, you will be required to register with Wiley-Blackwell's Author Services facility: <http://authorservices.wiley.com/bauthor/register.asp>. Paper offprints may be purchased online. Please click on the following link, fill in the necessary details and ensure that you type information in all of the required fields:

<http://offprint.cosprinters.com/blackwell>.

The Society's Media Centre considers all articles for media release as they become available online. If your article is selected, a member of the team will contact you to discuss options for pro-active media activity. If you or your department wish to issue a press release relating to your paper, please contact both the Wiley-Blackwell Marketing Manager (cwitcombe@wiley.com) and the BPS Media Centre (presscentre@bps.org.uk) to let us know and to discuss the embargo date for your paper.

This journal offers a number of license options for published papers; information about this is available here: <https://authorservices.wiley.com/author-resources/Journal-Authors/licensing/index.html>. The submitting author has confirmed that all co-authors have the necessary rights to grant in the submission, including in light of each co-author's funder policies. If any author's funder has a policy that restricts which kinds of license they can sign, for example if the funder is a member of Coalition S, please make sure the submitting author is aware.

Thank you for giving the Journal the opportunity to publish your work.

Kind regards,

Dr. Leonel Garcia-Marques
Associate Editor, British Journal of Social Psychology
